STUDENT TO FEATURE BUYER'S EDUCATION

Home Economic Classes Will Hold Tea: Exhibits In Forest Recreation Hall

Several classes of students in Home Economics will hold a "tea" and "exhibit" on Saturday morning in Forest recreation room. From 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., the home economics building will be open to all students who wish to attend; admission will be by ticket only.

Ten will be served by the students in Home Economics 11 and 13, and the recreation room will be lined with booths displaying home economics equipment. Exhibits by the students of Home Economics 41 and 42.

One group of exhibits will be as consumer education and will be displayed in one of the smaller rooms for the instruction of the public. There will be ten exhibits, each one consisting of charts and concrete materials, and dealing with follow-up work. The students actually made coats, ready made dresses, paper cutting sheets, and dress shoes. There will also be a foundation for a large display of the following materials, bath towels, gloves, tables, etc. They also made and sold in synthetic materials.

Students who wish to attend will also be an exhibit of dresses. Some of these will be dresses which the students made themselves. In many cases the students have also been designed by the students.

These dresses will not be modeled in this activity, but each one will be displayed, and each that each will be numbered and indexed on the display, so that the customers may easily identify them.

ASSUMED INTELLIGENCE

It was considered humorous that the student body should be thought to be seriously menaced by the red flag waving on Chapel hill. Red flags do not suggest bad people, as they seem to suggest in the Jewish community as a whole, where red flags mean certain things. But unfortunately college students are not yet ready to greet un

Stanley Lary Will Interview Students

Vocational Guidance Head Plans Middletown Visit Next Monday, Tuesday

In accordance with its policy of vocational guidance, the college will have interviews on Monday and Tuesday for Mr. Stanley C. Lary, Director of the Bureau of Education and Vocations of the University of Virginia. Mr. Lary is to visit the college to interview several students interested in vocational help. He is to be in Middletown on Sunday except for a short period on Monday afternoon when he will return to New York to attend a meeting of the executive committee of the American Vocational Association.

Mr. Lary is a graduate of Bates college, and has been in education for 20 years, the last 16 at Harvard, M. L. T. and Columbus. Be-tore taking up his work at the University of Virginia he lectured in the North for ten years with the Federal board for Vocational Education.

At the club he has maintained contact with prominent educators and business leaders, organized conferences in which they and hundreds of the second generation of teachers he has taught and participated and he has personally communicated to thousands of college students. Besides holding individual interviews with students, Mr. Lary will have two general interviews in the early hours of the senior class, Mr. Lary will take part. These will be held in the dining hall and in the auditorium, and will last for a short period. He will also be at the college to give two general addresses, one at 8 p.m., and one at 10 p.m.

Rey Holden Talks
On "Ivy Tower"

Vesper's Speech Stress, How to Overcome
Of More Abundant Life

Ber. Edwin R. Holden of Utica, N.Y., addressed the student body at the vesper of the College, talking on the subject of the title. "Ivy tower" attitude of life.

Mr. Holden opened his talk by talking of an incident in the life of a young woman. He said that it is easy to be moral if there is no temptation, but to deeper the soul and face the tasks of life is another story.

Mr. Holden said that the "Ivy tower" attitude is not to be despised, but it is not the right attitude.

Mr. Holden's talk was a call for a more balanced life, a life that is not just for oneself, but for others also.

Student Directors Present Art Productions
At Playhouse Friday Night

Student-directed plays presented Friday night at the playhouse offer a vary-sion of art. The directors of the plays are members of the class of 1962.

Arnold Bennett's play "Stepmother," directed by Betty Hargrove '62, tells the story of a young woman who is forced to take care of her stepmother after her father's death. The play explores themes of love, sacrifice, and redemption.

"Flower Girl," directed by Robert Roper '62, is a comedy about a young woman who is forced to become the breadwinner for her family after her father's death. The play features a number of humorous and heartwarming moments.

MAT 1—March, the month of wind we feel, and whipping homes for vacation, is here in no small measure mad-vacuum. The road to Middlebury has fallen out and like a lamb" and March which has come we have witnessed the shift of the faithful and the quiet recall to the past. The road to Middlebury for home has been crowded with a demand at local emporiums for top coats and rayons. We have witnessed the pocketbook of local merchants.

With the passing of February also came the end of the local soccer season until we well into April. With this in mind the possibilities of encounterners both bad and good, the same new warded away mild record books and record blank. Some of the players look forward to a bit of history and few from the crasher's back.

The orchids of the snow season, no doubt, must be nicely teased to the skidder-quest for individual Victory Apples throughout the season and compete with the Middlebury and Middletown Cambrials. Standouts on this month's list are the graduate Osgood Smith, and Townsend. Local yokels will long remember Olga's Jigs of 110 and 112. It's no wonder that they are a forthright back. And to be of the grey of the group is to be named a hundred for whipping a calibre-A club together in a book for six months.

"Second grade stands, by all camp-pool polls, most full of substance and on by a few. It was the first of a commentary likely to be a handicap to an cry of eleven others. Whoever passed good shot, to drop one into the lap of the painted surface.

On to other garlands and a pool of gold. On to a rich display of the reinvented intramural relay team for two-class wins in twice as many starts. This was the month of the 38-37 count that was so to this year's first in the second grade. It was the month in which this was the club's most successful season in years. With the winter months several years back grabbed off the fresh from fresh startles into the knee and slammed the tide of defeat. This will always remain as a warning of the most sport flashes and flashes being brought.

And, we've trooked through a few of a whole month. The club's activities in the spring sports have yet to show some the beginning of the season. They are

Snowshoe Hike To be Held Tuesday

Overnight and Day Trips of Weekend Expect to Make
At Lincoln Warren Pass

William P. Herrmann '39 president of the Mountain Club, has announced - part of the schedule for the remaining activities of the outing organization. Competing the last winter program, is the mixed overnight snowshoe hike, and day ski hike, scheduled for this weekend. The overnight snowshoe hike which has not been on the club's list of activities for many years, will leave Saturday. The hikes will go to the base of Lincoln summit, where they will spend the night at the farmhouse of Henry Davis, and will proceed to the summit the following morning. Those who do not plan to spend most of the day taking advantage of the excellence in the weather and conditions and will later join the day ski hike at Lincoln Warren pass. Participants for the overnight hike are Prof. and Mrs. Benjamin Wiesner.

The day hike, as has been mentioned before, will go to Lincoln Warren pass. This may be the last ski hike of the season due to the fact that the coming spring thaws which are expected soon, will take most of the good snow away. Trucks will leave Butteville cottage at 8:30 Sunday morning. Price for members is sixty cents, for others seventy-five cents.

Prof. Wiesner expanded his ideas for the benefit of his listeners. His monetary theories and belief in using all available facilities, including the government, provided the essential element for discussion. He pointed out that this money could be used to pay our national debt and stimulate production and that it is for this reason that the government that the dangers of inflation come when industry is producing at capacity

Hepburn Social Hall Arranged To Provide Student Reading Facilities

In the field of poetry, Vera Teasdale's "Flame and Shadow" John Marter's "Collected Poems." Edwin Arlington Robinson's "Tristram," and an anthology, "The Oxford Book of Eighteenth Century Verse," are among the books from which to choose.

Donald Oden Stuart's "Perfect Behavior," or Stephen Leacock's "Laugh with Leacock" will be very appropriate if you are in a trivial, humorous mood. Among the collections of essays are "In Praise of Idleness and Other Essays" by Bertrand Russell and "This Unsimian World" by Claremont Day. "Graphic Design" by Field Heifer and "Beauty" by Parkhurst are interesting technical books on art subjects.

The selection of books will be changed every three or four months. These books, together with the new furniture and the two ping pong tables previously installed make Hepburn Social hall a logical and comfortable place to spend a spare hour.
